Representatives of E. H. Porter Construction Co., builders of the new senior high school, are meeting this morning with subcontractors and the building committee to make a final commitment on the completion date for the now-delayed structure. The company contracted to complete the building by Aug. 1, then later stated it would be ready for occupancy by Sept. 1. Various delays, however, have interfered with this schedule.

Porter asked for a 60 days extension earlier this month. Since the first of the month, a $100 a day penalty has been accumulating.

Police Chief David Nicolli reported to the Selectmen this week that speed control signs will be installed on Gould Road where there have been objections to speeding traffic.

He reported also that S. Jason Lebowitz, 126 Argilla Rd., has promised to restrain two shepherd dogs at all times except when they are accompanied by a member of the family following discussion of a complaint from Robert West of 130 Argilla Rd. The chief added that if there are further complaints, he would recommend a hearing under Chap. 140, Sec. 157 of the General Laws.

Raytheon Co. has been awarded a $7,492,928 contract for ground support equipment for the Hawk missile system by the U. S. Army Missile Command, Huntsville, Ala. Work on the contract will be done at the company's Andover operation.

Edna M. Hall of 236 Andover St. escaped without serious injury last week when her small foreign car collided with a truck in Reading and overturned. She was able to leave the scene to seek private medical care despite the fact her car was termed a total wreck.

Mrs. Roland Dewhurst, 43 County Rd., reported to police Saturday that a 1960 model car had been stolen from her garage sometime Friday night or early Saturday. As of Tuesday, the car had not been located.

Police are investigating the theft of a power lawn mower which was reported missing from the open garage of Anthony DiDeo, 189 River Rd., on Monday.

River Clean-up Plans Still Stymied

Representatives from Andover, North Andover, Methuen and Lawrence recessed the latest in a two-year series of conferences about cooperative control of pollution of the Merrimack River last week without resolving their differences.

Greater Lawrence Communities have been deadlocked for the past several months over the issue of representation with Andover, North Andover and Methuen insisting on a regional pollution board comprised of one member from each of the four communities and Lawrence demanding three seats on the board because it will be required to pay the lion's share of construction and operating costs for a $21.8 million sewage treatment plant.

A meeting held in Lawrence Thursday was arranged by the Central Merrimack Valley Regional District Planning Commission in the hope that a compromise could be arranged before Sept. 1. The State Water Resources Commission has said it will step in after this date to enforce new regulations prohibiting wholesale pollution of the Merrimack and other state streams.

Two developments within the week appear to have widened the breach between Greater Lawrence communities on the pollution issue and increased the possibility that Andover will have to consider the alternatives of building a sewage filtration plant of its own or initiating negotiations with North Andover for a joint venture on this side of the Merrimack.

On Thursday, Lawrence Mayor Daniel P. Kiley told pollution delegates flatly, "I'm afraid the state will have to take me by one arm and the federal government by the other and be leading me off to the jailhouse before I'll sign a regional sewage treatment plan that may cost the City of Lawrence $40 million."

He said the state's recent surprise announcement that one portion of the river must be purified to meet "B" water quality standards has clouded the cost question, and he said Lawrence would not continue with negotiations until this point is clarified.

State water resource officials indicated last spring that the whole of the Merrimack would have to be brought from its present state of pollution (as a "D" rated stream) to the level of "C" standards, which would ultimately purify the water for most uses other than swimming. At hearings held by the Resources Commission, Andover was the only community to urge classification of the Merrimack as a "B" River and its position was attacked by Lawrence officials and others because it was estimated that improving the quality of water to this extent would cost another $30 million.

The State has now said that the Merrimack from Fish River (where Andover has an intake for its Fish Brook dam) to the Lawrence dam must meet "B" quality

Raytheon Leases Lawrence Space

Raytheon Co. has subleased the former Robert's Packaging Co. building in the Lawrence Industrial Center as a location for final assembly and testing of the self propelled Hawk, including battery consoles for the tracked vehicles. The self propelled Hawk is a highly mobile missile system developed for use in the forward areas of combat zones.

The move into the new quarters is scheduled for mid-September. Plant Manager Harry A. Loebel reports that "The move will release an area in the first floor of the present Andover facility to accommodate increased fabrication and assembly of Hawk ground support equipment."

Candidates Speak

Cronin, Davey, Stewart Appear At Public Forum

Editor's Note: Candidates for the vacant 12th district seat in the Massachusetts House spoke Wednesday night, after TOWNSMAN press time, at a forum sponsored by the Greater Lawrence Young Republican Club. The three Andover candidates, Paul W. Cronin (R), Vincent P. Davey (D) and William Stewart (R) were invited to submit the text of their statement in time for this issue. Excerpts from those submitted are incorporated in this story.

GOP Candidates Paul W. Cronin and William Stewart and Democrat Vincent P. Davey of Andover, among those seeking to fill the 12th district vacancy in the Massachusetts House, spoke to a pre-primary forum audience Wednesday, "What will you do for the Merrimack Valley if elected,?"

Cronin proposed in his formal statement formation of a bipartisan Legislative Task Force composed of representatives from the Valley districts who would work together to find new industry for the area and to solve such long-range problems as air and water pollution and the expansion of facilities and programs for higher education.

Calling the 12th Essex District, the "hub" of the Merrimack Valley, Cronin said that it is the geographic center of a region in which communities have common problems, similar aspirations and widely divergent resources to solve problems. He suggested a joint effort in the search for solutions.

Also urging cooperation, Candidate Vincent Davey said, "The fundamental goal of officials in this area should be toward greater communication. We should look at the problems facing us not as individual problems, but as area problems. We have operated too often and too long as individual entities."

He listed as a top priority item, group action to eliminate pollution

Early Deadline For Next Issue

The Andover TOWNSMAN will close its offices on Sept. 4, Labor Day.

Because the paper will appear on Thursday as usual, however, persons interested in submitting copy for the Sept. 7 issue should have it in no later than 5:30 p.m. Sept. 1. Copy submitted earlier than that will receive prompt attention.

Junior High Class Assignments

The intricate job of assigning this year's crop of junior high school homerooms that will remain intact when the JH population is split between two buildings later in the school year is completed.

When the new senior high school is opened, junior high students living to the West of the Boston & Maine Railroad line will attend Andover West Junior High School on Shawsheen Road (the present high school) and students living East of the B & M will be housed in the junior high school building on Bartlet Street.

Students for both schools who are enrolled for instrumental music classes have been assigned to special homerooms so that they can be readily available for mid-day instruction periods.

Born in Maryland, he attended schools in Maryland, and also John Hopkins University in Baltimore.

He is married to the former Ruth Noland of Leesburg, Va. The couple has two daughters, Mrs. Roderick K. Macleod of Hingham and Mrs. Ruth B. McCredie of Andover.

Professor Joins Ohio Faculty

Kent State University in Kent, Ohio, has announced the appointment to its faculty of Ray B. Knoohuizen of 31 Holt Rd. The second largest university in Ohio, Kent State expects a fall enrollment of 18,000 students. Knoohuizen will be teaching accounting and his appointment is effective Sept. 15.

Prof. Knoohuizen was formerly a member of the Merrimack College faculty, having come to the Andover area in 1965 from Lake Charles, La., where he had taught at McNeese State College for seven years. He holds an MBA degree from Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration and a CPA certificate. His experience includes a number of years in business before going into teaching.

Prof. and Mrs. Knoohuizen will leave Andover for Ohio in mid-September. Their daughter, Nancy, will return shortly to Queens College in Charlotte, N. C., for her junior year as a piano major. Their son, Ralph, will be back at Yale University for his second year in law school.

An honest man, after reviewing his own life, will be inclined to let youth chart its own course.

Alumni Honored By Merrimack College

Donna W. Auchterlonie

Stewardess Is Graduated

Donna Winifred Auchterlonie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Auchterlonie of 21 Hall Ave., has started her career as an Eastern Airlines stewardess.

She graduated from Eastern's In-Flight Training Center at Miami, Fla. where her schooling included grooming, makeup and the gracious presentation of dining services in addition to other flight crew duties.

Miss Auchterlonie graduated from Andover High School and prior to joining Eastern she was employed as a secretary in Andover.

Upon completion of the training course in Miami, Miss Auchterlonie reported to New York, where she will be based. From there she will fly to many of the 113 cities Eastern serves in 28 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Bermuda and the Bahamas.

Lt. Karen P. Fiedler Nurse Receives Commission

Karen P. Fiedler of Andover was recently commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force Nurses Corps at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, where she completed her basic training.

She has been assigned to Clinton Sherman AFB in Oklahoma. A graduate of Andover High School and the Children's Hospital Medical Center of Nursing in Boston, Lt. Fiedler worked at Children's Hospital and Lawrence General Hospital prior to joining the Air Force.

The most successful annual alumni fund campaign in the history of Merrimack College has resulted in the designation of the lecture hall in the new $2 million library building as Alumni Hall.

This announcement was made today by Merrimack President, Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, OSA. He said, "The Alumni officers and directors of the 3,500 member Alumni Assn. have been notified by mail that the administration of Merrimack College has agreed to designate the new library theatre to the graduates of the college. "The dedicated efforts and enthusiasm of the alumni has given the college development program great impetus and the future growth and reputation of the college will be enhanced by the continued efforts of the Alumni Association."

A final report of the annual Loyalty Fund Campaign to Father McQuade from the vice president of development, Robert F. Hatem, showed the Merrimack Alumni exceeding the national average of participation with some 32% of the graduates contributing $21,000 to the library construction project through the Alumni annual giving program.

Father McQuade said that the results become more impressive with the fact that the college is only 20 years old and has had only 17 graduating classes. "The enthusiasm of alumni groups is usually restricted to longer established institutions." He attributed much of the incredible growth of the college to the dedicated efforts of the Alumni Association.

Those holding office in the Alumni Assn. during the 1966-1967 drive included: president, Charles H. Wesson, Jr. of Andover.

Andover Gift Is Appreciated

Andover sponsors of an organ concert honoring the memory of the famed humanitarian Dr. Albert Schweitzer have received a note of appreciation from the doctor's daughter, Rhena Eckert-Schweitzer for a gift of $173.50.

The letter came from the Schweitzer Hospital in Lambarene, Gabon, Africa and read: "We are most grateful for your generous gift from the people of Andover who attended the organ recital in memory of my father. We deeply appreciate your remembrance of him and of his work. We try to carry on the work of the hospital as best we can, in his spirit, and you can be certain that your gift will do much to help the increasing numbers of people who come to us for surgical and medical care."

The local recital was held in September of 1965 and sponsored by the Andover Council of Churches, St. Augustine's Church, St. Robert Bellarmine Church, Cochrane Chapel and the Merrimack Valley chapter of the American Guild of Organists. Kaete Van Tricht, organist for the Bremen Cathedral, Bremen, Germany, was the recitalist.

NEWS CAPSULES

Selectman William Stewart complained to fellow officials Monday that motorcycles are speeding on the roadways at Washington Park Apartments on North Main Street and he asked for a police investigation.

The town manager told Selectmen Monday that he has been unable to make any progress with negotiations to buy the Shaw land abutting the town sanitary land fill and he recommended that the board consider acquisition by eminent domain at its next meeting. Purchase of additional acreage for the dump has already been authorized by voters.

Town Manager Richard Bowen informed the Selectmen Monday that the Conservation Commission is now of the opinion that it cannot acquire land owned by George Brox on Lowell Street by negotiation and that it has asked the Selectmen to consider seeking authorization for an eminent domain proceeding at the next Town Meeting.

The commission reports that it considers Brox' asking price for the whole of his property (part of which borders Hussey's Pond) out of line and that the owner has indicated he is not interested in selling just that portion most desired by the town.

Manager Bowen said Monday that following a meeting with Gillette Co. officials last week he had requested engineering consultants Camp, Dresser & McKee and Town Engineer John Avery to prepare a schedule for coordinating activity related to Gillette's plans for construction of a warehouse - packaging plant in Lowell Junction.

He told the Board of Selectmen that if the town could get started within a month or two on voter-approved improvements to water and sewer lines and roadways to the industrial area, it could have the work done by the winter of 1968.

This word has been relayed to Gillette which must first make a firm commitment to proceed before the town can spend the $1 million voted at the Aug. 21 Town Meeting.

In A Word . . .

Cramp

Although there seems little connection between the words "cramp" and "cram", both words are actually derived from the same Old English word crimmen, meaning "to force in".

When you "cram" a suitcase with clothes, you exert pressure to squeeze everything in, similarly, pressure or painful contraction of the stomach or a muscle came to be called a "cramp."

Bible School Gives Prizes

Prizes for attendance, memory work and the registration of new members were awarded to six children at closing day ceremonies for the Andover Bible Chapel Vacation Bible School Thursday.

Receiving awards were Laura Zollner, Karen Picard, Lori Watson, Janel Krull, Janice Brownville and Mary Beth Conners.

The closing program was presented by Paul Shaw of Rhode Island, school director and 350 attended. Parents were welcomed by Cheryl Egemann, Linda Jackson and Michele Meuse.

Following the program, parents viewed a display of handcraft work while children were shown a film.

At the morning session of the School, 254 children, ages 6 to 12, registered. There was an average attendance of 169. This required 23 adult workers and 11 teen-age helpers.

"Teens Only" sessions were held in the evening with an average attendance of 55. There was keen competition in the sports events, an active participation in the buzz groups, and a real interest in the relevant teen-age Biblical subjects.

Future activities are planned for all age groups. As they are announced, all children and young people in the community are invited to attend.

Beauty

By Mary

A woman's skin must be cleansed; it may need nourishing; it requires toning. If you prefer soap for cleansing, be sure it's the right soap for your complexion. Some are too strong and drying. If you favor a cleansing cream, use a thin cream that dissolves when it is applied. The skin should be thoroughly cleansed at least once a day, preferably at night, so as to leave the pores clear for as long a time as possible. It should be left on for a little while in order that it may penetrate and cleanse. It is a good idea, also, to change your brand from time to time.

Surely even Cleopatra would have envied the lovely hair styles and excellent hair care offered at CAPILLO HAIR STYLISTS at 2 Riverina Road in Shawsheen Andover. We carry wigs, falls, and wiglets. Call 475-1639 for your appointment with beauty today.

Summer Is Over

Public Schools Open Sept. 7

A week from today, Sept. 7, Andover public schools will open with an estimated enrollment of 5243 for the 1967 academic year, something in excess of 400 students more than attended classes here last year.

Supt. Edward I. Erickson said this week that all schools will hold regular sessions on the first day and that lunch will be served in all cafeterias. He added that milk recesses will be available to elementary pupils beginning Sept. 11.

The superintendent reports that the hours of school will be the same as last year: the high and junior high schools will open at 7:55 a.m. and close at 2:15 p.m.; most elementary schools will open at 8:45 a.m. and close at 3 p.m. West and Shawsheen Schools, exceptions because of transportation arrangements, will open at 8:30 a.m. and 8:40 a.m. respectively.

A total of 78 new teachers will be reporting for duty the opening day, Erickson said. Thirty-nine of these have been added to meet the demands of increased enrollment and 39 will replace teachers who have left the system.

Erickson said that the entire teaching and administrative staff of the system will report on Tuesday and Wednesday Sept. 5 and 6 for pre-school conferences and advance preparations.

He added that at Shawsheen School, teachers and pupils will be greeted by a new principal, Edward P. Regan, who joins the system following service in Stratford, Conn. and with the United States Army Security Agency.

New students who have not registered may do so on the first day, Erickson said. He added that principals will be in their offices at appointed hours between now and Sept. 7 for advance registration. Information on the schedule is available at the school department office.

Commenting on the fact that the new senior high school is not ready for occupancy at the beginning of the term, Supt. Erickson said announcements about the transfer of senior high students to the new building and of the eventual division of the junior high school population into two student bodies will be made after a firm date for the opening of the new school is established.

Vets Must Report New Income

Veterans receiving nonservice-connected pensions may save themselves inconvenience, embarrassment and money by notifying the Veterans Administration immediately when there is an increase in their annual income.

The amount of a veteran's nonservice-connected pension is based on his income and the number in his family - his wife and children. If any of these factors change, his pension may change.

If the veteran receives additional income raising his total annual income or if he inherits money or sells property of material value, the facts should be reported at once to the VA.

For the same reason, should the veteran return to work, or should his family status change, such as divorce or death of his wife, marriage or death of a child, the birth of a child, or the marriage of the veteran, the VA should be advised immediately.

Failure of a veteran to report income above the legal limits may result in VA overpayment to him.

Further information on VA pensions may be obtained at the VA Contact Division, Room E-116, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Government Center, Boston, daily from 8:30 to 5:00 and Saturdays 9:00 until 1:00. Telephone: 223-3008.

PA Summer Session Attracts 500

The Andover Summer Session of Phillips Academy recently concluded its 26th year. This summer 500 boys and girls of high school age came to the New England campus from 48 states and six continents to participate in a program of study not ordinarily available to most secondary school students during the normal academic year.

Specially designed courses such as "Twentieth Century Concepts", "Computer Programming", and "Advanced Topics in Chemistry" as well as courses in foreign languages, the humanities and sciences are offered at Andover on a non-credit basis to able students from public and independent secondary schools.

The Summer Session uses all of the facilities of the 189 year old academy including the 80,000 volume library and the Addison Gallery of American art. Its faculty is drawn from the Phillips Academy staff as well as from other public and independent secondary schools.

In addition to the formal curriculum of the Summer Session, an extensive program of outside speakers, dramatic and musical productions, and off-campus trips are organized each summer. This year, students heard speak and met in their classes John Holt, author of HOW CHILDREN FAIL; Prof. Joseph Fletcher, author of SITUATION ETHICS and professor of social ethics at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge; historian, painter and musician, Prof. John Ratté, as well as Yale Younger Poet Award winners, Jean Valentine and James Tate; and novelist Tom Cole, author of AN END TO CHIVALRY.

Among students attending the summer session were these young people from Andover:

Kathy Clift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Clift Jr., Chapel Avenue, a 10th grader at Andover High School; James H. Couch Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Couch of Phillips Academy, a 9th grade student at Lenox School for Boys; Geoffrey H. Lewis, son of

Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Lewis, 1 Nutmeg Ln., a 10th grader at Mt. Hermon School; Thomas T. Oliver, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Oliver, 22 Hidden Field, a ninth grader at Phillips Academy.

Caitlin Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Owen Jr., of Phillips Academy, a ninth grader at Andover Junior High; Harrison S. Royce III, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Schuyler Royce Jr., 11 School St., a ninth grader at Phillips Academy; Lisa R. Russem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Russem, a freshman at Abbot Academy; Nina F. Simonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Simonds of 110 Lovejoy Rd., a 10th grader at Andover High School; and Peter St. Jean, son of Mr. and Mrs. George St. Jean of 53 Red Spring Rd., a senior at Andover High School.

James D. Wilson Jr.

Wilson Given Citadel Degree

James David Wilson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilson, 88 Lowell St., was awarded an AB degree in history Aug. 25 when commencement exercises were held at The Citadel, the military college of South Carolina. Sixty cadets qualified to receive their degrees at that time when the military college's second session of summer school terminated.

Student participants in the ceremony, most of whom had been summer school students, donned their cadet uniforms for the last time to receive diplomas. Gen. Hugh P. Harris, president of The Citadel, who delivered the commencement address, formally presented diplomas to those who participated.

Some students who had qualified for degrees earlier in the summer were unable to be present because they had already begun civilian employment or military assignments.

Gen. E. A. Pollock, USMC (Ret.), chairman of the board of visitors, conferred degrees. Maj. Gen. Reuben H. Tucker, USA (Ret.), commandant of cadets, presided over the commissioning ceremony for those students who will enter the Armed Forces.

During his career as a cadet, Wilson held membership in the museum committee, the Canterbury Club, the History Club, the International Relations Club, the Association of the United States Army, the Fencing Team, and the Episcopal Chapel Vestryman. He was enrolled in the Army ROTC Program.

Librarians Recommend The Reading Habit

There's quite a difference between worrying about something and intelligent study of the problem to see how it can be solved. You in life that has not yet been experienced by another human being is to be shot to the moon in a space capsule. Even so, you will be able to draw upon the knowledge gained through the experiences of American and European astronauts.

Chances are that the worry YOU feel falls into a well-defined category and that scores of helpful books have been written on the general subject. Even if your problem is fairly unique, some fellow human has probably faced and solved the same problem in the past - and written a book, pamphlet, or magazine article about it! Why not let the printed word help YOU solve your problems and eliminate your worries. Remember, the printed world of knowledge awaits you at Memorial Hall Library. One of the most constructive habits you can cultivate is the habit of reading - widely and regularly. The reading habit enables you to better cope with the problems of the day and, in large measure, to anticipate the problems of tomorrow. Reading provides us with many hours of quiet relaxation and enjoyment. Without reading a man may lead a good life, but for a FULL life a man needs to learn something about the faith, the hope, the charity and inspirations of other men as well as something of the beauty, the dignity, and the nobility of other men. Cultivate the reading habit and it will serve you well.

Recent On You
Demands for books on YOU have stepped up at Memorial Hall Library. One side of the display through in the main reading room is devoted to books on YOU, and the librarians have been hard put to keep it filled each day. Books on personality and self-improvement don't stay very long on the shelf. The nightmare concept that a man is coming to be merely cog number 99,999 in a giant computer and personality just a reminiscence of our past may be a long-range possibility, but judging from the demand for YOU-oriented books at Memorial Hall Library it is apt to be many years in the future.

Typical of the books to be found on display are two by long-time, best selling psychologist, Harry Overstreet, MIND ALIVE and THE MIND GOES FORTH, books which for over a decade have continued to challenge and transform the outlooks and potentialities of thousands of readers. Other analysis in the serious and spiritual vein include a still often requested best-seller of many years ago, Joshua Loth Liebman's PEACE OF MIND, and Harry Emerson Fosdick's ON BEING A REAL PERSON.

Forthcoming Books

Over a year ago the library began subscribing to "Forthcoming Books", a bi-monthly publication which lists all U. S. books to be published over a five-month period. Each issue of "Forthcoming Books" - six a year - indexes by author and title all general, technical, scientific, and children's books to be issued during the next five months. The periodical meets a long-felt need for complete and more frequent advance information on books to come.

Now the Bowker Co., which publishes "Forthcoming Books", has come out with a "Subject Guide to Forthcoming Books", which the library subscribes to. This periodical presents by subject the same titles that are listed by author and title in "Forthcoming Books". Also available at the library is the 1966 "Books in Print", a three volume set of books arranged by title, author, and subject, which lists some 190,000 in-print books from over 1,600 publishers available in the U. S. today.

Little Visit

Last week a gentleman presented himself inside Memorial Hall Library seeking information as to how to get to Phillips Academy. As the directions were given and as the conversation unfurled, it turned out that this man was doing research for a forthcoming biography-novel of James Abbott McNeill Whistler.

The author's name was Leonard L. Levinson. Levinson has confined himself hitherto to cookbooks and unusual dictionaries, having written such books as THE COMPLETE BOOK OF PICKLES AND RELISHES, THE BROWN DERBY COOK BOOK, THE LEFT HANDED DICTIONARY, and WEBSTER'S UNAFRAID DICTIONARY. Memorial Hall Library looks forward to the publication of the Whistler book so that it can be added to the collection - should it be a worthy addition!

Former children's librarian, Margaret Lane of Boxford, has returned from her four year stint as a librarian at the American Academy for Girls in Uskudar, near Istanbul, Turkey. Miss Lane was children's librarian at Memorial Hall Library from 1945 to 1963.

Summer Potpourri

Tax bills which reflect assessments made during the recent equalization survey have been distributed, a painful reminder for some that their properties are actually considered worth what they would try to sell them for if the opportunity arose.

To those who find this annual moment of truth especially difficult to accept in 1967, we offer a perpetually timely admonition from Thomas Paine: "Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must, like men, undergo the fatigues of supporting it." Statesman Paine may not have had financial support in mind when he made the statement long years ago, but it perfectly well fits the situation.

One of the few bright spots to be recalled from a summer that has seemed oppressively dismal is the Chamber of Commerce Sidewalk Bazaar, now a June tradition.

There isn't another single event all year which brings the community together in quite the same way, nor anything which so effectively preserves the illusion that Andover is still a small town.

The Chamber is to be congratulated for having turned the Bazaar into something more than just another retail promotion.

All the people who so vigorously opposed the Selectmen's suggestion of some months ago that the Barnard property in Elm Square should be used as a site for the new town hall are strangely silent now that it is obvious the planners were right — there was a need to be concerned about future use of that prominent location.

A small business building will soon go on the frontage, blocking the view of the Benjamin Punchard House that is so revered and crowding the triangle of land that overlooks the whole of the downtown business district.

The owners of private property have a right to develop it as they see fit, within the limits of our zoning regulations. The townspeople should never again make the mistake of assuming otherwise.

Further proof that hindsight can clarify a lot of things is visible in Shawsheen.

In March the owner of several lots on both sides of Burnham Road (near the horn bridge) offered voters the opportunity to authorize his construction of 10 apartment units on a wooded hill in a single residence zone. In exchange, he was willing to agree to place deed restrictions on the balance of the land so that it could be preserved in its natural state. Because of the nature and distribution of the land, the Planning Board approved. But Town Meeting was indecisive so the owner has begun development of all 10 lots as single residence properties rather than wait around for another meeting and perhaps, another rebuff.

One look at the layout, and voters can know what a mistake they made in worrying more about what the property owner might stand to gain from the arrangement offered than which proposal was best for Andover.

Post Office Avenue is a disgrace to Andover and it is about time the Selectmen, the general public and the shopkeepers along this so-called "avenue" put enough pressure on the owner to force improvement of this privately controlled but publicly used street.

So long as the shops along this short stretch of rocky road (just off Elm Square) are rented, people who want to do business there have no choice but to make their way over the bumps.

A flood of complaints about the unsightly condition of the roadway might at least cause the owner to give some thought to his public image.

The retirement of a man who has worked diligently in the field of public safety for 30 years should not go unheralded.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:
What did Andover's voters really buy at Town Meeting last Monday? (Aug. 21).

Not an exotic and exaggerated school design, most distinguished by its numerous roofs and out-houses.

Not the outrageous price, produced by an outrageous design.

But rather they bought an escape from the pressures and threats of the dire consequences for judging the proposal on its intrinsic merits. It was an emergency vote. It was a vote for any port in a storm.

What Andover's voters really bought at Town Meeting was escape from a very good example of very bad government — government by emergency.

Dino G. Valz
17 Stratford Rd.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Town meeting continues to lose control over its elected and appointed representatives and so its government becomes more costly per inhabitant. Town meeting is further reduced to acquiescing in their designs under the compulsions of emergency. Action relative to the proposed Bancroft School is a case in point not to mention the Gillette give away.

At the August emergency meeting no advocate of the Bancroft design would give a firm figure of its cost at completion.

Selectman Watters without batting an eye excused the office of selectmen for approving the school by stating that the office did not realize it would cost so much when it approved the original design.

The school superintendent acknowledged that Bancroft would not, educationally, offer any advantages not present in the town's other schools.

The Selectmen's hired delegate offered the view that he was fully aware that it costs more, up to 30% more, to build a public school in Massachusetts than elsewhere.

With Selectman Watter's excuse in mind, and the delegate's view, the question is: why should the selectmen now plead ignorance of the school's excessive costs? They had before them the fact that the design in itself is exceptionally costly at best and, that in Massachusetts in particular, such a design's execution costs would be outlandish which has proved to be the case.

In addition to all this, the Selectmen advised town meeting that even tho but a single bid was made, it would be best for town meeting to buy the design anyway. . .

RIVER CLEAN-UP

standards. Pollution entering the stream from Lowell is expected to be dissipated just above Fish Brook where Andover will eventually be drawing upon the Merrimack for additional water supply.

Methuen, as well as Lawrence, objected this week to the "B" classification and said it will ask the State to reconsider. In addition, the selectmen there and members of the Methuen pollution abatement committee voted unanimously Monday to tell Water Resources officials that they will support a regional if a 3-2-1-1 board is agreed upon — three votes for Lawrence, two for Methuen and one each for Andover and North Andover. Methuen has consistently expressed a preference for 1-1-1-1 representation previously.

Lawrence spokesmen argued again Thursday that $30 million is too much for just adding swimming to the river's use potential and the city's engineer said it would be cheaper to build municipal swimming pools.

Actually, additional purification of the river through that one stretch will cost considerably less than the figure Mayor Kiley used in his discussion. Engineering consultants are busy now making official estimates, but meanwhile Andover Town Manager Richard Bowen has said the figure will probably be something like $6 million. Whatever it is, it will have to be split by Lawrence, Methuen and Andover, the only three communities releasing anything into the river between the Fish Brook — dam area. Imposing "B" standards for this area will mean that Lawrence and Methuen cannot continue to release storm drain water into the river at this point without prior treatment.

In a last ditch effort to reach some regional agreement, the Merrimack Valley Planning Commission offered last week to study the representation issue and make a recommendation to community officials. This report is not expected to be ready by Sept. 15, however, when pollution delegates from the four municipalities will meet again to hear revised cost estimates taking the latest river classifications into account.

Up to now, it has been felt that the larger communities involved

He referred to the problems Amesbury encountered recently when it announced plans for both school and industrial construction projects that would add to its sewage future sewage load, and hence to pollution of the Merrimack. Officials there were told that additional pollution of river could not be permitted and that the town would have to go ahead with control plans.

Since Andover and North Andover are the only two of the four Greater Lawrence communities with much land left open for development, Young said it is possible they may now stand to benefit most from a regional approach to river clean-up.

Nature's Ways

Herring Gulls Can Navigate "Blind"

By Wayne Hanley

Back in the era when airplanes had double-decker wings, there was an intermittent joke around airports about the fog being so thick that the birds were walking. Anyone who spent much time this summer on the Maine coast recognizes that degree of fog. It was so bad, in fact, that vacationing yachtsmen were mooring in the first favorable Maine harbor and transporting their families by bus to their homes in Massachusetts, Connecticut or Rhode Island.

Yet, there were families whose homes were in the midst of this fog and whose livelihood depended upon commuting several times a day through mist that limited visibility to less than 50 yards. These were the herring gull families that live on islands off the Maine coast.

Dr. William H. Drury Jr., director of research for the Massachusetts Audubon Society, followed the fortunes of these gull families. He knew from research in former years that there were two major life patterns for Maine coastal gulls. Far out at sea on Metinic Green, Noman's and Matinicus Islands were herring gulls that followed the ancient traditions of gulls, well removed from man's influence and man's garbage dumps. On these three islands at the turn of the century lived 15,000 pairs of herring gulls - at that time the entire population in the northeast. At that period, these herring gulls were assumed to be on the road to extinction and their welfare gravely concerned the Portland Society of Natural History and the Maine Audubon Society.

The outer island gulls now are down to 500 pairs. But their losses apparently have not come from a declining birth rate. Rather, their young, like all rural young, seem to be lured away by the bright lights of the cities and the cities' plentiful dumps.

Meanwhile, between Muscongus Bay and Jericho Bay, the clutter of islands lying within ten miles of dumps or fish piers now support scores of thousands of gulls. These gulls make several trips daily to mainland garbage supplies and fly back to the islands to feed their young.

From July 1 through Mid-August there were exactly three clear days on the Maine coast. Most of the time, the visibility was under 50 yards. The weather provided experimental conditions that man could not hope to duplicate. The conditions tested the herring gulls' ability to navigate "blind" - indeed, to navigate under conditions that sorely tried experienced seamen aided by compass and radar.

Since young gulls will starve quickly if not fed regularly and are subject to fatal ills if not brooded and sheltered adequately, the proof of whether the adult gulls were able to navigate in the fog lay in the survival of their young.

"We found," said Dr. Drury, "that herring gulls possess some sense or means of navigation that does not depend upon sight. The birds lacked even the sun to guide them. Yet, their production of young was down only slightly. Our early statistics indicate that the birds fledged an average of one chick per breeding pair. This is enough production not only to maintain the population but to continue its explosion. In good years, the production averages about a chick and an half per pair."

Those outer island birds that failed to succumb to the city's lure went through their breeding season with about the same success they have in the best years. Since they are too far from dumps to commute, they pick up a living scavenging the nearby beaches and rocks. This year they brought off an half-a-chick per pair, which is "normal" production.

proached with a unity of effort and expressed the view that representatives from the district should be the unifying force. "Communication between state and community officials and officials of surrounding communities should be constant," Davey stated.

of the Merrimack River.

Stewart presented a six-point listing of the key items on which he is taking a pre-election stand. Included were auto insurance, the sales tax, Home Rule, highway construction, air pollution and state Civil Service reform.

Stewart predicted defeat or a gubernatorial veto for the auto insurance reform bill now under discussion at the State House and said that if elected he would support an insurance measure that would embrace provisions for sound responsibility on the part of the driver, an incentive for careful drivers of all ages, elimination of payment on false claims and a reduction in rates resulting from a sound safety program.

He put himself on record as favoring retention of the present sales tax and added that he feels revenues from this tax should be distributed "100% to the cities and towns as originally intended."

The Andover Selectman said that he would favor a "truly constructive study of Civil Service" and reforms that would be fair to civilians and veterans alike. "Veterans," he said, "are entitled to recognition, but on a fair basis."

"If the present Civil Service Commission is functioning as it should, it should have no fear of the findings of an impartial study committee," he added.

Stewart recorded himself in favor also of a Home Rule law that could not be diluted by amendments, a "fair share" of State and Federal financial assistance to provide access roads and facilities which would attract "good types" of business to the area, legislation to eliminate waste incineration practices that result in unsightly conditions, odors and pestilence.

In his statement Paul Cronin, a former Andover Selectman and aide to Congressman F. Bradford Morse, referred to the people of the Merrimack Valley as its "number one resource" and spoke of the constantly changing demands on their skills. "As a district legislator," he said, "I will not be satisfied until we make Lowell Tech (Technological Institute) not only one of the finest schools in the country, but one that is available for every one of our citizens who has the ability to compete academically." In continuing his discussion of the need for increased facilities for higher education, Cronin mentioned also the inability of Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill and Lowell State College to make room for many qualified applicants.

Mr. Davey, the only local Democrat on the ballot for the Sept. 12 primary, told the forum audience that the trend today is toward solving problems on an area basis and he noted that "The governors of New England and other sections of the country realize that they have strength when they operate as a unit."

He said the 12th district has problems that should be ap-

Best Buys

Perfect summer weather is making it "perfect" for housewives who want to satisfy their families with fresh native produce. According to the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture, this week and next show the longest list of "best buys", including newcomers like celery and cauliflower, for Mrs. Homemaker. Native sweet corn continues superabundant, so prices are really low for the best-tasting corn in several seasons.

Salad makin's are cheap, including: Boston lettuce, Romain lettuce, green and red Cabbage, celery, chicory and escarole, cucumbers and tomatoes, parsley, radishes, California Wonder and Italian Ell peppers. Other vegetables in excellent supply at low price: all varieties of beans - Kentucky wonder, green, wax and shell - beets, broccoli rabe Chinese and Savoy cabbage, carrots, eggplant, parsnips, potatoes, Italian and yellow summer squash, scallions, buttercup and butternut squash. Early Mac and Gravenstein apples are reasonably priced for this time of year. Wild and cultivated native blueberries continue plentiful and economical.

Although eggs are slightly higher, mediums are a good buy, with extra large a "distant" second best.

Today's Agri-Fact

Housewives who realize there are only slight differences in size and no difference in quality between the smallest and the largest eggs are able to save money by "switching" to the "best buy" weekly. This week, for example, the spread between mediums and larger sizes is so great that a dozen and a half mediums may be purchased almost as cheaply as a dozen large eggs.

Mrs. Jonathan Ferris Callender

Callender - Bennett

Synthia Eversley Bennett, daughter of Mrs. M. Gignoux Bennett, 11 Watson Ave., and William Bennett Jr., 43 Salem St., was married at an evening candlelight ceremony on Aug. 16 to Jonathan Ferris Callender, son of Mrs. Robert Ford Callender and the late Mr. Callender of Pasadena, Calif.

The marriage was performed by Rev. Noel Vore in the chapel of The Neighborhood Church, Pasadena, Calif.

The bride was escorted to the altar by Joseph Leupp Johnson of Pasadena. She wore a candlelight gown with an Empire bodice, princess lace and a skirt and a long train of silk satin. Her hairpiece was a mantilla of an antique princess lace held in place by a Camelot cap of ivory. She carried a cascade of gardenias, anemones and ivy.

Mrs. Kenneth Bruce Hunt of Covina, Calif., was maid of honor. Her dress was a floor length gown of Sam Rose silk. She wore a crown of pink rose buds in her hair and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Honorary bridesmaids were Mrs. Allan Rodgers Blackmer Jr. of Shaker Heights, Ohio and Mrs. Anthony G. Athos, Lincoln, Mass.

Joseph Alfred Johnson of Pasadena, Calif., was best man and the groom's father, Elexis Squire Hanson of Templeton, Calif., and Mark Otto of Covina, Calif.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bennett chose a soft yellow ivory brocade gown, worn with a corsage of yellow rose buds and anemones. The bridegroom's attire wore pink lace and a corsage of pink rose buds.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the church garden after which the couple left for a wedding trip to San Francisco.

The bride attended Abbot Academy, Whittier College in Whittier, Calif., and Boston University. She is employed at Widener Library.

Harvard University. The bridegroom, a graduate of California Institute of Technology, is presently attending Harvard Graduate School where he is a teaching fellow in geology.

After Sept. 15, the couple will be at home in Cambridge, Mass. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Frederick E. Gignoux and the late Col. Gignoux of Cape Elizabeth, Maine and the late Rev. and Mrs. William Russell Bennett of Williamstown, Mass.

The groom is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lowther Ferris of Chicago, Ill., and Seattle, Wash., and the late Mr. and Mrs. John Callender.

Ballot Signature Drive Scheduled

Senator John Michael Quinlan of Dover this week challenged those who feel that a Constitutional Convention is either dangerous or unnecessary. Quinlan, chairman of the non-partisan Committee for a Constitutional Convention, is spearheading a drive to bring about the first Constitutional Convention in Massachusetts in 50 years.

Although the law allows three months (Sept. 6 to Dec. 6) in which to collect the 61,236 signatures necessary to place the Convention question on the ballot, Senator Quinlan plans to achieve this number and more on Sunday, Oct. 1.

Similar drives in the past have fallen short of the required number of signatures during the three months allotted by statute. Quinlan estimates that upward of 3000 workers will be marshalled throughout Massachusetts on Oct. 1 in order to reach the goal on that date.

Regarding charges that the convention is a dangerous approach to governmental reform, Senator Quinlan said, "A Convention is neither radical nor abrupt. In the first place, our petition calls for a limited Constitutional Convention - limited to dealing only with structural changes in our state government. It will review - with an eye to altering - the Executive Branch; the Legislature; the Governor's Council; the government of cities, towns, and counties, and their relationship to each other and the government of the Commonwealth; and future methods of constitutional reform.

"It would be specifically restricted from considering the Declaration of Rights, the Judiciary, and taxation," Senator Quinlan explained.

"The petition is limited so that concentration can be focused on those areas concerning the institutional framework or structure of our state government.

"These limitations should also allay any fears of a wide-open convention. A convention of this type is a far more cautious and thorough method than the helter-skelter, piecemeal legislative method of amending the Constitution which does not take into account the whole picture.

"Even more important," Senator Quinlan continued, "the safeguards inherent in a constitutional convention constitute true government of the people, for the voters have the ultimate right to decide on all questions.

"As far as a convention being necessary," Senator Quinlan said, "Massachusetts is struggling with a Constitution that is 187 years old, written when Massachusetts was an infant state with a fledgling economy, not the industrial technological giant that it is today. "The last 50 years have seen no substantial revision of the Constitution, during a time when our annual state budgets have grown from $40 million to $1 billion.

Gravel Pits Again!

Board Issues Permit Demand

The Board of Selectmen voted unanimously Monday to require Developer John McKee to apply for a gravel permit in connection with his site preparation activities in the Morningside sub-development.

This action was taken in response to fresh complaints from residents along County Road about speeding gravel trucks and after a report from Police Chief David Nicoll stating that the trucks in question are coming from Morningside, not the Cyr gravel pit on Woburn Street which had been considered a possibility.

At Monday's board meeting, Selectman Roger Collins asked what steps the town could take that had not been taken to restrain McKee in the operation of a pit in the Morningside section.

Town Manager Bowen replied that the town could establish load limits for Country Road and post it, but he suggested that the board might want to demand that McKee apply for a gravel permit because of the magnitude of his operation. He said it would appear that what McKee was doing was incidental to sub-division.

Municipal bylaws now permit developers to remove sand and gravel in connection with sub-division site preparation without a gravel pit permit. The Planning Board is currently reworking an article it wrote for the Aug. 21 Town Meeting warrant which would place some restrictions on the removal of sand, gravel and top soil from sub-division properties. The article, which would have been withdrawn had the Aug. 21 meeting lasted long enough, will be considered at the annual March meeting.

Also on Monday, the Selectmen heard arguments for and against the issuing of a new gravel permit to Northeast Sand & Gravel Co. which until July 31 operated a pit off Central Street on land owned by William P. and John F. Foster. The permit was revoked on that date upon recommendation of Building Inspector Arthur Peatman who reported that grade conditions in the pit did not meet municipal standards and that the slopes left could be considered dangerous.

Peatman said this week that Northeast has now complied with town demands, but residents from the area argued that they do not consider the pit safe. In order to see just what it is residents have in mind, the board agreed to meet at the site today at 5 p.m. to listen to specific complaints and discuss conditions with company officials.

Among those speaking Monday against issuing of a new permit at this time was Harold S. Livingston of 107 Abbot St. who said, "I don't think anyone has a right to set a trap for a child."

He said a nephew of his was killed in a pit accident some years ago and pointed out that "it takes but a little bit of sand to snuff out a child's life."

Also objecting to conditions as the so-called Foster pit was Walter R. Selfridge Jr. of 131 Abbot St., who said he still feels the pit is unsafe. He complained of gullies "five feet deep" and said they were unsafe for a child in daylight and for both adults and children after dark.

One resident added that the same conditions neighbors complained about three years ago, still exist today.

Both residents and members of the Board of Selectmen showed an interest in determining just who is to be held responsible for operation of the pit if a new permit is issued - Northeast Sand & Gravel or the Foster Brothers. Peatman said that the permit would be in the name of Northeast Sand & Gravel and an attorney for the company said queries about the pit should be directed to Northeast or the Fosters.

'Vale Fire Investigated

Fire Chief Henry Hilton said Wednesday that his department and that of the State Fire Marshall are still investigating the origin of a Saturday night fire which did heavy damage to the residence of Mrs. Virginia T. Gardner at 54 Tewksbury St.

Though the fire is now listed as of "undetermined origin," the possibility of arson has not been dismissed, the chief said.

The fire, which was reported with a box alarm at 11:41 p.m. Saturday, started in the kitchen and pantry and spread to an upstairs bedroom where it was held in check by firefighters.

Fire authorities have been questioning residents in the area in connection with the investigation.
